

China.

The Foreign papers record what is considered the end of the great rebellion in China, which has lasted, with varying success for many years. "On the 19th of July last the troops of the Emperor of China succeeded, after several days hard fighting, in capturing the city of Nankin. Tien Wang, the rebel Emperor, killed himself a few days previously by eating gold leaf, determined by suicide to avoid personal capture. The body was found by the conquering troops, lying in the position in which the rebel had died. The other leading rebel chiefs were taken, and one of them, Chung Wang, has determined to write his life, if allowed to live long enough for the purpose." Whether, however, the death of Tien Wang and the capture of Nankin, really does "end the rebellion," remains yet to be seen.

Rothschild in New York.

[From the Liverpool Daily Post, Sept. 27.]

Rothschild is in New York by—deputy. He is everywhere, but nowhere visible. Wherever there is a ministerial crisis, a rebellion, an insurrection, or a war, he is always present. During the French war, the Rothschilds were, though invisible, in every capital, in every banking house, in every camp, and every battle-field. They knew better than those engaged in the conflict how things were going on, and how they were likely to end; and the British Government in 1815 received tardily the news of the victory at Waterloo through Mr. Rothschild. He did his own little business first, and then he delighted his Majesty's Ministry anxiously waiting news over their wine and walnuts. During the present war in America, the Rothschilds have been in the North and in the South, in New York, Boston, Richmond, Vick-burg, Mobile and Atlanta.
